WiseTech AI charge plan raises questions over CargoWise Value Packs · 10/10 High

The Loadstar · 08 Oct 2026 04:43 MST

WiseTech plans to charge separately for CargoWise AI agents, according to Citi, raising questions over what customers can expect their existing Value Packs (CVP) to cover. A 1 October research note said WiseTech would be “monetising the AI agents separately from the CVP”, and identifies adoption of the agents as the biggest driver of expected second-half revenue weighting. Responding to questions from The Loadstar, WiseTech chief executive Zubin Appoo said six agentic ... The post WiseTech AI ch

Why Adding 3PLs Can Backfire on Shippers · 10/10 High

FreightWaves · 07 Oct 2026 14:27 MST

Managed transportation isn’t one thing — and misunderstanding it can cost shippers money. John Conrad of Evans Transportation Services breaks down what managed transportation actually means, where AI helps (and where it’s oversold), and why using too many 3PLs can drive rates up instead of down. If you manage freight, routing guides or brokerage partners, [...] The post Why Adding 3PLs Can Backfire on Shippers appeared first on FreightWaves .

Customer demands for new tech a dilemma for SME forwarders · 8/10 High

The Loadstar · 08 Oct 2026 04:57 MST

Customer expectations are forcing SME forwarders to adopt new technologies, even as the most valuable applications may never be seen by those customers, threatening the qualities the operators offer over their larger rivals. Sophia Huluta, president of one such forwarder, GLC, said changing everyday relationships with technologies, including AI and real-time visibility, was leaving forwarders with no choice but to provide the same digital speed and visibility as much larger logistics ...
